Two Coeds Spend Night In Mountains

By JEFFREY JOSEPH
Associate Editor

Two freshman women emerged from the woods in the Middlebury Snow Bowl area early Monday morning after losing their way during a day work hike sponsored by the Mountain Club. The girls had spent the night in the woods.

Virginia Backus and Kathleen Meyers had been assigned the job of painting two miles of trail markers extending southwards from the Skyline Lodge.

They became separated from the main group and at about 5:15 p. m. doubled back to the Skyline Lodge after missing two trail junctions. Meanwhile, the Mountain Club party had left for their cars.

The two girls waited for three quarters of an hour in the lodge, decided to leave a note, and then set out again to try to find their way to the cars. They ended up somewhere south of the main trail to the steam mill clearing where the cars had been parked.

Absence Causes Concern

At about 8:00 p. m., the girls' Junior Counsellor became worried and notified Alan McKibben '63, chairman of Trails and Equipment for the Mountain Club. After an investigation, McKibben notified state police in Burlington who radioed the troopers in the Middlebury area.

Robert Steeves, campus policemen, heard the broadcast and rende-vouzed with the

Concert Series Announces Plans For New Shows

The Middlebury College Concert Series for 1962-63, having started with a popular reception of the Phakavali, dancers of Thailand, will next host "Music in Our Time" on November 4 in Mead Chapel.

This modern music group presents new works by contemporary composers in New York City during the winter. The composers give a brief commentary on their composition just before the piece is played by the group and then are open to questions in a seminar immediately after the performance.

On December 2, The New York Brass Quintet will perform in Mead Memorial Chapel

Also in Mead Chapel will be the Paganini String Quartet appearing on Feb. 10. This group has appeared at Middlebury before and was well received at that time.

The Beaux Arts Trio will come to Middlebury on March 10. This concert will also be Mead Memorial Chapel.

Winding up the Concert Series will be the annual performance of the Vermont State Symphony Orchestra in the Memorial Field House.

SISTER OF ROSE OF LIMA

Sister Rose of Lima to Speak Here Tonight

Sister Rose of Lima, a Maryknoll missionary in Korea, Japan and the Philippines, will be Newman Club's guest speaker on Oct. 11 in Willard Lounge at 6:45 p. m.

She will talk about her 21 years of experience as a missionary, and, with her companion Sister Myra Anthony, will narrate a film documenting their work in Korea.

Now an administrator at St. Joseph's Hospital in Manapala, Phillipine Islands, Sister Rose is in the U. S. on leave of absence pending re-assignment to a foreign post.

Prisoner of War

A graduate of Catholic University in Fordum and a registred nurse and registered pharmacist, Sister Rose was first assigned to North Korea in 1931. She was captured by the Japanese in World War II and repatriated in 1944.

Returning to Korea in 1945, she played an important role in establishing the Maryknoll Sisters Clinic in Pusan, where more than 2500 people were treated daily during the Korean War.

The story of the Korean clinic and Sister Rose is told in "Her Name is Mercy", published in 1961.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting. All students and faculty are welcome.

Rusk Will Speak Monday at 4:00; Seats Reserved

Doors at the Memorial Field House will open at 3:15 p. m. on October 8 for the talk by Secretary of State Dean Rusk. All students, faculty and staff are requested to enter the Field House by the main doors (west side).

Others will enter through the south doors at the rear of the Field House. A center section of 1200 seats will be reserved for the college and may be occupied between 3:15 and 3:50. After this time all seats in this section not occupied will be open to the public.

It is expected that the total capacity for the talk will be around 1900. A special section will be set up for guests, the Board of Governors and the press.

Over 600 Alumni To Return For Homecoming Festivities

Six hundred alumni and their families are expected to register Friday for the 1962 Homecoming festivities.

The returning graduates will attend a buffet supper at 6:30 p. m. on the Bread Loaf campus. At 8:30, Karl Anderson, professor of economics, will hold the first seminar of the weekend. His subject is "The Common Market". The seminars are an opportunity for alumni to participate in intellectual discussions with the faculty.

Saturday's activities begin with an Alumni Coffee Hour at the Alumni Center. At 9:30 a. m. the members of the Alumni Council will meet at Bread Loaf.

Soccer and Lunch

A soccer game against Springfield College is scheduled for 12:00. At the same time there will be a buffet luncheon at Memorial Field House.

At 2 p. m. the alumni and their families are invited to cheer Middlebury's football team as it meets Worcester Polytechnic Institute at Porter Field.

Those alumni who do not wish to attend the athletic activities may join a seminar in Munroe Hall at the same time. Professor Lockwood Merriman will talk on "Observations of Greece and Israel".

Saturday Social

A social hour will be held in the Alumni Center after the game. Dinner will be at Bread Loaf campus at 6:30.

Saturday evening, Lee A. Lendt, instructor in political science, will conduct a seminar on "Diplomacy, Defense and some Impatient Americans".

Breakfast will be served Sunday at the Waybury Inn at 8 a. m. At 9 a. m., the Alumni will hold another meeting at Bread Loaf. Homecoming weekend will come to a close at 10:45 a. m., with a service in Mead Chapel.

Social Events

The annual homecoming Commodore's Ball is the highlight of the coming weekend's varied social affairs, ranging from fraternity rock and roll parties to Sunday morning brunch.

A smooth four piece combo will entertain at the semi-formal dance in Proctor Hall Lounge beginning at 8:30. Features of the intermission include selection of this year's homecoming queen and folk singing by Duncan Kendall and John Green.

This year's Homecoming Weekend will include the usual plethora of fraternity parties.

ALPHA SIGMA PSI

A cocktail party following the football game will begin Alpha Sigma Psi's weekend. A buffet supper at 6:30 will be followed at eight by a party with The Guitar Rockers of Boston providing music. A brunch and an alumni meeting will take place on Sunday.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Alpha Tau Omega will open with a record party from 4 to 6 with the Dissipated Eight also singing. There will be a party from 8 to 1, at which The Storms will play. On Sunday the fraternity plans a brunch.

ATWATER

Atwater Club plans parties on Friday and Saturday evenings.

CHI PSI

A cocktail party from 4 to 7 will be followed by a buffet supper. There will be a party until 12:30 with a BYO bar and kegs. The Ken Carter Quintet will play from 4 to 12 on Saturday.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

Delta Kappa Epsilon will begin the weekend on Friday evening with a keg party. On Saturday after the football game there will be a cocktail party and buffet. From 8-1 The Saturday Knights will play for the

IFC Penalty Is Set At $100 For SE

Sigma Epsilon fraternity was charged with dirty rushing and penalized $100 at Monday night's Interfraternity Council meeting.

The charge stemmed from an advertisement which appeared on a desk blotter which has been distributed widely in the dormitories.

The infraction was cited as "distribution of literature concerning a fraternity" prior to formal rushing.

The blotters are one of the concessions which are awarded by the Concessions Committee on the basis of financial need. The concessionaire solicits advertising and pays the cost of printing. The difference between income and costs goes to the student.

Inspection

The IFC begins its inspection of fraternity houses this weekend. The purpose is the enforcement of the social code. All members of the Council will be on duty Saturday night. Junior members will travel with the senior members from their respective houses.

Freshman Meeting

The meeting with freshman men originally scheduled for Tuesday night will be held tonight at 7:00 in Munroe 303.

Three Named By CAMPUS

New appointments to the Editorial Board of The CAMPUS were made last week. Jeffrey Joseph '64 was appointed associate editor and Jeffrey Alderman '65, executive editor.

Howard Tolley '65 will occupy the position of news editor and Charles Buell '64 that of assistant news editor.

Carr Art Show Open to Students

Addison County artists will have a chance to exhibit their works during the last two weeks in October. The opportunity is also extended to students at the college.

The show is designed to acquaint Addison County residents with their artists and the artists with each other's works.

The show is limited to one painting per artist which should be matted, framed and labeled. The label should state the artist's name, college address, the medium used and the price and title of the painting. The picture must not exceed 36" by 40" framed. No sculpture will be accepted. Paintings will be received at Carr Hall on Oct. 9 and 10 from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. The pickup day is Nov. 1.

The show runs from Oct. 15 to 31 and will be open daily except Saturday and Sunday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Questions regarding the show should be directed to Mrs. Klaus Wolff at DU 8-4862.

Communication

Long ago, in the 1930's, the complete student body of Middlebury College met daily in a chapel service. The required attendance insured a means of communication among the student body, the faculty, and the administration.

Since World War II, with the discontinuance of daily chapel, bulletins have been issued every day to retain some sort of central college communication. The Daily News Notes, as the bulletins became known, were published by the College News Service at an estimated yearly cost of $1350.

This year, a two-part bulletin called College Announcements and Student Organizational Notices replaces the Daily News Notes. Except during times of "heavy traffic," the C. A. and S. O. N. will be published three times a week and like its predecessor will be available sometime after noon. It will retain the old circulation, but now all student notices "concerning events of campus-wide interest" will have to be approved by either Lynn Hinman, director of Redfield Proctor Hall; Dean Kelly; or Dean Reynolds before they may be entered into the S. O. N.

Middlebury has been the only college of its size whose administration has undertaken a daily announcement of both staff and student notices. At Williams College, the daily announcements are a student-run operation, soliciting subscriptions in town and receiving light subsidies from the college. At Norwich Unversity, daily orders are issued by the college. Practically all other colleges publish weekly or bi-weekly announcements.

As was the case with the old Daily News Notes, the C. A. and S. O. N. are being published too late in the day to be effective.

The administration is now depending upon bulletin boards in Redfield Proctor Hall to take on the major function of day to day student announcements. Not everyone, however, enters Proctor Hall every day.

It is evident, then, that a medium must be sought to solve the problem of a unified and effective announcement service. Perhaps the Student Association or the Board of Governors could undertake such a project. Maybe even a new concession, comprised of two or three dependable students, could take care of the operation.

In any event, the publishers should take care to print the announcements at night to insure their timeliness.

The Right Answer

We applaud the decision of the Interfraternity Council at last Monday's meeting. It showed that the IFC has finally made good its promise to hit hard at dirty rushing.

The question which the IFC had to decide did not concern the magnitude of the infraction. The question was whether the IFC would allow, by tacit consent, each house to advertise its merits in any way possible. If this case had gone unnoticed or even lightly penalized the road would be open for other houses to engage in a crescendo of similar activities. In an effort to "keep up with the Joneses" this sort of rushing would become time consuming and financially burdensome.

The obvious result would be that some higher authority would be forced to step in and stop an excessive rushing effort and possibly review the entire rushing procedure.

The IFC has shown that violations of the rushing rules will be dealt with severely. The Springtime of threats has come to the Fall of action and it is none too soon.

Prickett's Varied Activities Enrich Middlebury Campus

CAMPUS—Manternach

By WHIT CHADWICK

Fourteen years of service to Middlebury have made Henry B. Prickitt, professor of English, an integral part of the college.

Composition Chairman

A man of many and varied interests, Prickitt has contributed greatly to student life at Middlebury. He held the position of treasurer of undergraduate activities for 12 years. At present he is acting in an advisory capacity to Lynn W. Hinman, director of Proctor Hall and present treasurer.

Until last year Prickitt was in charge of the Freshman composition course. Since its abolishment in the fall of 1961 he has been teaching other courses in the English department.

By appointment of the president of the college, Prickitt has acted as one of two faculty marshals for the past three years. The faculty marshals organize both faculty and students during commencement and convocation. They are also responsible for leading the processions.

During fraternity rushing this fall Prickitt acted as faculty arbiter on the Interfraternity Council. His job consisted of sorting committments, attending council meetings, and being available to the sophomore men should questions concerning rushing arise. However, according to Prickitt, "rushing was quiet and orderly with no problems."

After graduation from Amherst Prickitt spent three years in the Navy. He now serves as a Commander in the Naval Reserve in Burlington. He received his master's degree and his doctorate from Harvard before coming to Middlebury in 1948.

Prickitt leaves Middlebury in December to spend the second semester in England. He will be on sabbatical leave in Oxford from January to June. His plans also include travel on the continent.

Secretary Rusk Analyzes Cuba At World Talks

This past week Secretary of State Dean Rusk has been in New York City conferring with foreign ministers who are there for the 17th session of the United Nations General Assembly.

His primary concern was to assess our allies' feeling about the Cuban crisis. This Tuesday there was a meeting of American ministers in Washington, D. C. at which the main topic under discussion was the possible creation of a Carribean military organization to guard against Cuban-based aggression and subversion.

Secretary Rusk was born Feb. 9, 1909 in Cherokee County, Ga. He received his B.A. at Davidson College, North Carolina, where he was Phi Betta Kappa. Next he studied at St. John's College, Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar. He served for a time as associate professor of government and dean of faculty at Mills College. In 1937 he married and has three children.

In 1940 Secretary Rusk entered the United States Army and served until 1946. From 1947 to 1952 he successively held the following positions: Assistant Secretary of State for U.N. Affairs, Deputy Under Secretary of State and Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs. From 1952 until his appointment to the Cabinet, Secretary Rusk was president of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York City.

The Secretary of State sums up his philosophy of life in this remark made by a circuit preacher in Georgia: "Pray as if it were up to God; work as if it were up to you."

"WHITE RIVER WINTER"

Middlebury's noted artist, Arthur K. D. Healy, was represented by his water color, "White River Winter", at the Boston Art Exhibition in the Boston Gardens during the summer.

Honors For Students At Graduation

Elizabeth Barkentin graduated magna cum laude at the Commencement Exercises of the Class of 1962 last June 11.

Miss Barkentin was also awarded Valedictory Honors for women and high departmental honors in psychology.

Adam Wechsler received valedictory honors for men. David Schwartz and Bonnie Boyd achieved salutatory honors.

High departmental honors in political science were conferred upon Michael Reiss. Other graduates with departmental honors included David Bahn and Hilda Wing for Mathematics, Earl Scott Jr. for philosophy and James Laird for psychology.

To The Editor

The Foxes and The Hedgehogs

To the Editor:

Once upon a time there was a Hedgehog who worked very hard at his various labors all day, probably with expectations of making the Dean's List next year, and slept in the night. Now it so happened that a certain renegade Fox who was a natural night prowler, came early in the morning near the Hedgehog's lair, and played a fine trick. He woke him, and made him get up and out, and made him run. This was a great joy to the Fox in his heart (the Skt. has srddhi) but not to the Hedgehog (srddhivant "since he had a heart" approximately translated; the pun is difficult to render in English).

One morning the Hedgehog made believe he did not hear the Fox's calls. covered his head with his blanket, and stayed quiet. The Fox called louder and louder, called all the other Foxes who called their loudest, but, as you may have suspected, to no avail. It was a surprising morning to the Foxes, especially as they realized that they could not drag the Hedgehogs out of bed or bodily touch them, the laws of assault in civil code being quite explicit and embarrasing on this matter.

The next morning the Hedgehogs slept. They never ran again.

It is hardly necessary to refer the prescient reader to Isaiah Berlin's brilliant historical political essay now available in paper-back to make obvious the moral that Hedgehogs always win and Foxes always get it in the end.

Music Class Visits Abbey To Hear Gregorian Chant

By ANN KLING

The Gregorian chant resounds at almost any hour of the day within the walls of the Abbaye St. Benoit-du-Lac, County Brome, Quebec.

Last Saturday the monastery observed the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel. In the congregation sat members of Music 12 following closely the ancient musical notation of the Proper Mass.

First Hand Experience

The trip to the abbey near Vermont's border on Friday and Saturday climaxed the Gregorian chant study for students in the History and Performance of Western Choral Literature course. It was an amplification of class work and an opportunity to experience the Mass in person after two weeks of studying it as an abstract art form under James G. Chapman.

In addition to attending the High Mass, the group also attended low Mass and various offices throughout the day, particularly the matins, lauds and vespers. Saturday afternoon the students met with the abbey's choir director who discussed with them the finer points of performance, including rhythmic nuances, the special method of conducting chants and inflections.

Abbey Well Known

The abbey is noted for its performance of Gregorian chants in the tradition of the Solesmes monks in France who have achieved world-wide reputation for their performances, as well as for their erudition and devotion to monastic and liturgical studies.

The Abbey of Solesmes resuscitated sound liturgical traditions in France at a time when they were at their lowest ebb. The monks revived the accent and rhythm of plain song which had been lost and restored the true text of the chant. After almost 50 years of photographing original thirteenth century manuscripts from all over Europe, and of then comparing, editing, analyzing, debating and catalogueing, the abbey provided the "Liber Usualis" which became the authoritative version of the chant by decree of Pope Pius X.

Tradition of Scholarship

It is in this tradition of scholarship and perfection that the 50-year-old Canadian abbey labors. The musical dedication and discipline of the monks is perhaps best exemplified to the outsider when he sees monks stepping forward from their place in the choir to kneel, an act indicating the monk has committed a musical error.

Tour Followed

Male members of the music class were given a tour of the monastery and attended an investiture service of three novices. The men dined in silence listening to readings of the scriptures in French. Women heard Gregorian chant music at meals.

ALLEY-OOP: Byron Fink '64 portrays "the man in the funny papers that we all know" as the Dissipated Eight participates in the annual Midd Night festivities last Saturday at the Middlebury High School Gym.

Frosh Dance After Game

After the Homecoming game this Saturday afternoon the Social Committee of the Board of Governors is sponsoring an informal dance for the freshmen in the Crest Room. The dance will last until 6 p. m. Music will be provided by a rock and roll band and refreshments will be served. The dance is free.

state police, McKibben, several other members of the Mountain Club, and four Explorer Scouts from the Middlebury Emergency Service.

At this point, the state police outlined the rescue operation: One team of men was sent into the Middlebury Gap (at the top of Snow Bowl). Another team began to scour the trail. Two-way radios were borrowed from the Middlebury ROTC department and a base of operations was set up at the steam mill clearing.

Deans Arrive

By this time, Thomas Reynolds, dean of men, and Mrs. Elizabeth Kelly, dean of women, had been notified and arrived on the scene. The search continued through dawn. Bloodhounds were about to be employed in the operation when, at 8:30 a. m., the girls emerged from the woods. at the steam mill clearing.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR PEOPLE WHO LIKE TO DRAW . . .

Do you find yourself doodling in your notebook in class? Drawing pretty girls in exotic dresses? Then you can become a Fashion Illustrator and make up to $25 a week! (If you find yourself drawing girls without clothes, the possibilities are endless — you can make up to $40 a week!)

Yes, we group of fairly-famous artists have trained thousands of men and women just life yourself: Rembrandt, Picasso, Toulouse, Lautrec, Dike Blair - - say, Mr. Blair lives in Middlebury, so we can let him tell in his own words how we trained him to be a great artist.

For our interview, let us go to downtown Middlebury, to The Vermont Book Shop, of which Mr. Blair is the genial proprietor of. As we enter this store, one of the finest in the Northeast (Northeast Addison County), we note with gratification the excellent selection of beautiful art books.
A personable girl was standing in a sort of corral in the center of the store, and we asked her for Mr. Blair. "It's time for me to wake him from his nap," she said. "Just a moment," Taking a copy of James Jone's fine new novel "The Thin Red Line" she banged a counter inside the corral. Mr. Blair came rolling out from one of the shelves under the counter, stood up and said, "All right, all right. You don't have to scare me to death. Use a smaller book next time, maybe 'The Letters of James Agee' - - not so noisy."

"Mr. Blair," I said, "I understand you've written a sort of a book, and illustrated it with beautiful line drawings. How is it selling?"

" 'Books and Bedlam' is the title," he said, a shy smile playing about his lips momentarily. "It's the greatest book I ever wrote." ("It's the ONLY book he ever wrote," muttered the girl.) "It's selling surprisingly well despite the illustrations. But let's not talk about me and my success, let me tell you about 'Seven Days In May' - - it's the new book about the attempted take-over of the government in Washington, and is so exciting it's almost impossible to put down. If your mother or father is having a birthday, it's the perfect gift to send and we'd be glad to gift-wrap and mail it for you."

"An intensely interesting and moving new novel is 'The Broken Year' - - the story of a college boy who's badly injured in an accident and his struggle to become a whole man again. The author is Dick Brickner, who went to Middlebury two years (he would have been the Class of '55). The college in the book is Middlebury under a fictitious name."

Mr. Blair now was out of breath, and I was out of patience. "He's not artist, he's a huckster!" I said to the girl, who nodded, smiling, as I ran for the door.

Korean College President Lauds Midd Atmosphere

By MICHELE WHITNEY

To a Korean visitor Middlebury is more peaceful than most American colleges and universities which he has seen. The atmosphere is conducive to academic achievement toward which Middlebury aims. Noticeably absent on the Middlebury campus is "the mass-production machinery" which characterizes other schools.

Hyuk-So Kwon, president of Taegu College, Taegu, Korea made these observations after spending two days at Middlebury last week. He was a guest of C. Leonard Hoag, professor of political science.

President Kwon is nearing the end of a three month tour of colleges and universities across the nation, as a participant in the Foreign Leaders Program of the State Department Bureau of Educational Cultural Affairs.

Courtesy Returned

Last year Hoag taught at Taegu College under the Fulbright Plan. President Kwon showed particular delight in returning the visit or "the courtesy", as he put it, to Hoag.

As an economist and college administrator, President Kwon toured American schools to confer on budget-making and allocation of funds, fund raising and support of alumni organizations, student services and facilities, curriculum development, maintenance of academic standards and faculty organizations and activities. He "was greatly honored by President Stratton" at a luncheon and met and discussed economic problems with members of the administration and faculty.

On Friday President Kwon conferred with members of the economics department. He is particularly interested in methods of instruction and courses in economics.

No Serious Criticism

Continuing to complement Middlebury and most American schools Kwon said, "I don't have any serious criticism which I can make, since I didn't find any". But over the three months of travel, he grew dubious about the great deal of specialization in some universities which included departments of hotel management.

DEPT. N, AMERICAN STUDENT INFORMATION SERVICE, 22 Avenue de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxemborug

The lady looked at me sadly. "To think," she said, "just to think — My son has been at Middlebury four years and now, just as he's about to graduate, we find out about you!"

"But I thought everybody at Middlebury knew about BLUEBERRY HILL!" I cried. "I guess that just goes to show."

"It certainly does," she said. "To think of all those years, all those four years, when Jack's dad and I, his mother, could have been having Lucullan food so close, so very close to this marvelous college. And now he's graduating, and now we find out about BLUEBERRY HILL! We could have stayed here!"

I wagged my head and was sorry again. "I guess I ought to tell everybody about BLUEBERRY HILL? To think that I thought everybody at Middlebury knew." And I turned to my husband John, and sighed, "Sad, sad day. Nobody at Middlebury knows about BLUEBERRY HILL."

My husband said, "Tell 'em."

That's what I'm doing. BLUEBERRY HILL is one of America's great little inns. The food is Lucullan (that means perfect). It's cooked to order. We don't own (and wouldn't have) a steam table. It's beautifully prepared, perfectly served. It's chicken in wine, it's sweet and pungent duck, it's shrimp tempura. All the cooking is done by me, Elsie Masterton, author of the BLUEBERRY HILL COOK BOOK. It's a charming, old, relaxed, and we think, romantic spot. It costs $4.50 week nights, including Fridays, you don't have to order. We serve you what we like and you'll swoon. Those tiny hot biscuits! Saturdays and Sundays you can order chicken baked in wine (that's $5.00) or roast beef (that's $6.00). You can stay all evening. There are lace table cloths. Candles.

To those who know (and, by gosh, we were sure you knew) its the greatest food in the East — some say in America, but we're modest — we're happy with the East. You'd better come, don't you think? With your girl?

Call us first, hear? 247-8850, it is. And then come. Take the Snow Bowl road (Rt. 125) to our sign — just before Bread Loaf — then ride six miles thru the woods to BLUEBERRY HILL.

When you want a break from studying or just anytime come out for the finest in Ice Cream and Dairy Products.

Women Graduates Gain Higher Business Posts

The eternal triangle of interest — home, labor market, community — underlies the major problem facing the educated woman today — that of defining her role in life.

John Winthrop, puritan governor of the early Massachussetts colony, described in his journal a woman who "by occasion of her giving herself wholly to reading and writing" had not attended to "her household affairs, and such things as belong to women". Today, however, even the most conservative of businesses are appointing women to top positions in recognition of their achievements in universities and training schools.

Successful Graduates

A glance at the two file drawers filled with names of working Middlebury alumnae, many of whom are married, indicates that a significant percentage of our women graduates are successfully managing homes and careers. Approximately 450 alumnae are profiting from their education by teaching on the college, high school, and elementary levels.

The placement office's cards also reveal a number of other jobs which are being filled by our graduates. The government, through the CIA and other federal and local organizations employs research analysts, town clerks, administrative assistants, besides secretaries and office managers. Former Middlebury students are also architects, cartographers, nurses, doctors, lawyers, social workers and editors.

Varied Positions

The variety of positions represented by our alumnae is wide. One is the owner and manager of an amusement, another a travel agent, another a free lance photographer. A member of the Metropolitan Opera Chorus, a researcher for "Fortune", a television actress, a parole officer, and several laboratory technicians and chemical researchers are also registered.

The titles of books in the 396.5 section of the library concerning career opportunities for women point to the "victory" won by the fairer sex in the twentieth century. She now has equal educational opportunities but with this equality comes the problem of putting her education to use in the labor market, while still maintaining her traditional roles in the home and community.

This is the first of a series of articles on placement opportunities for women. Later features will deal more particularly with sepcific careers.

'A Place in the Sun' Shown Tomorrow

"A Place in the Sun," starring Montgomery Clift and Elizabeth Taylor, will be shown twice tomorrow evening in Proctor Lounge. The Recreation Committee of the Board of Governors is sponsoring the movie.

The first showing at 6:30 is for freshman. The second showing will be at 8:30.

Admission is 25 cents.

Schur's Poetry Wins 2nd Place

Steven Schur, '63, won honors for a second position in the annual Harvard Summer School Poetry Contest during his summer language studies in Cambridge. Sixty-two students competed in the contest.

To place in the contest, Schur read ten original pieces which he classified as "abstract." The prize of $15 was secondary to the reward of succeeding at the renowned university, according to Schur.

Stewart Stirs 26-0 Opening Win; Booters Excell Despite 2-0 Loss

Fluke Goals Spoil Great Team Effort

Last Saturday the Middlebury soccer team showed that it could play with the best in New England as it bowed 2-0 to a strong Williams contingent in its last pre-season scrimmage.

First Ranked

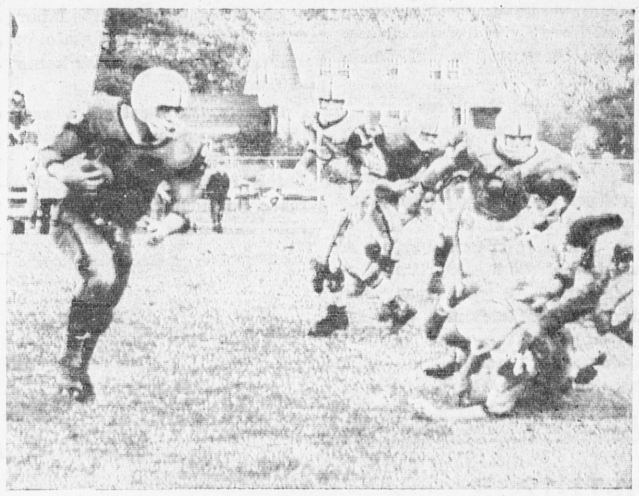
The Williams soccer squad was ranked first in New England last year, and with only two starters having graduated, all signs point to another banner year for the Ephmen. Middlebury's fine showing brought many compliments from both players and coaches for a stellar performance at Williamstown last Saturday. Thus, despite the rather dubious record of a tie and a loss in pre-season competion , the Panther outlook is far from dismal.

Unfamiliar with the playing field, and tired after the long trip, the Panthers started slowly in the first few minutes. The Midd team soon countered the Ephmen give and go running game with a speedy, short passing game of its own. The first half ended in a scoreless, but well-played tie.

Two Fluke Scores

Williams scored at the outset of the second half as the center took the opening face-off and dribbled through the whole Panther team to score almost unnoticed. The final home team score came late in the final period on a deflected fullback volley on the part of a Panther.

The three-man fullback defense, plus the lack of height on the part of the Midd team kept scoring threats to a bare minimum as only wing Jeff Baldwin, and center Jeff Joseph made effective efforts goalward. Despite the seeming lack of scoring potential, the Middlebury soccer team is optimistic about Saturday's encounter against Springfield after such a fine team effort vs. Williams.



PAUL FAVA exhibits power that netted him almost 40 yards rushing, and bowled over many opposing linemen in his way while carrying out vital blocking assignments in last Saturday's action.

WPI, Springfield Homecoming Foes

Homecoming 1962 promises to be filled with much fierce athletic competition here at Middlebury. The gridmen, off to an astounding 26-0 massacre of favored Wesleyan, face a severe test in WPI, and the soccer team opens its official season against perennially strong Springfield at 12 noon.

Yearly Tussle

Every year the engineers from Worcester give the Panther football team a tough ballgame. The last few years Middlebury has seemed to be able to overcome lack of size and outsmart WPI. This year our opponents might have the overall strength to defeat the Panthers. Last week they powered their way to a 21-0 victory over monstrous Central Connecticut State. Not only did WPI display a powerful forward wall, but its backs seemed to have the finese necessary to outmaneuver opposing linemen. This year's battle promises to be a fine football game for the returning alumni.

Springfield Tough

Coach Joe Morrone will display his booters for the first regular game since last year when the soccer team enjoyed its record best ever, 7-2-1. Middlebury replaced rather weak Clarkson Tech with Springfield on this year's schedule. Every fall Springfield fields a fine soccer team, third ranked in New England and winner of its first six encounters a year ago, and from pre-season reports this year promises to be no exception. Having lost some key players through graduation, the Panthers will be displaying a team rich in front-line talent, but very thin in overall ability. If the conditioning is up to par, this Saturday's game should be the best soccer exhibition of the year.

Homecoming 1962 has the best all-around athletic contests ever billed here at Midd. Let's get out and support the players who have drilled so hard during the past month.

Fava, Holmes Top Backs; Line Outstanding in Rout

By PHIL NELSON

Middlebury's Panthers opened their season with a surprisingly one-sided romp over favored Wesleyan. Despite the rain, Midd out-ran, out-passed, and out-fought the Cardinals throughout the game. Duke Nelson was especially pleased with the tough Midd defense.

"Defense won the game. We were able to force them into many mistakes and capitalize on them. Before Wesleyan we weren't sure about our defense, but our injuries healed and everyone made a fine effort."

In the first quarter the rugged defense, lead by Co-captain Al Ross, Dave Giddings, and Gil Stanley jarred loose the ball from Wesleyan and took possession on the Cardinal 36 yard line. Craig Stewart then directed a fine series of passes and runs through tremendous holes in the Cardinal line which culminated in a six yard touchdown pass from soph halfback Al Reilly to end Gil Stanley. The point-after failed and Midd led 6-0.

Rain Hampers Play

Heavy rain prevented more scoring in the remainder of the first half which was stalemated in a see-saw defensive battle. Dave Holmes gained 42 yards for Midd while the Panther defense refused to allow a first down.

In the third period the Midd defense went back to work in the Wesleyan backfield with Gil Stanley pouncing on a fumble on the Cards 31 yard line. With Stewart again firing pinpoint passes, a drive began to the Cardinal one yard line where offensive holding cost the Panthers 15 yards. A clutch pass, however, from Stewart to Holmes took the ball back to the one yard line where fullback Paul Fava blasted over to increase the score to 12-0.

Fine quarterbacking by Stewart gave Midd its third score after a poor kick by Wesleyan. With Fava and the interior line blocking well, Holmes and Reilly were able to make several fine runs. Stewart himself did some fine running on quarterback sneaks through the middle. From three yards out Holmes took the ball over on a slant off left tackle to break into the scoring for the first time this year and put Midd ahead by 18-0.

SOPHOMORE HALFBACK Al Reilly is caught en route to first touchdown via a six yard scoring toss to end Gil Stanley in opening minutes of 26-0 rout of Wesleyan.

Sophs Spark

As if Wesleyan hadn't had enough Coach Nelson sent in a predominantly sophomore team on "shock troops," which proceeded to extract what spark the Cardinals had left. This was accomplished by a dazzling run of 48 yards by sopho halfback Jim Hunt who had entered the game for the first time. Soph quarterback Jeff McKay, who had directed this last drive, ran for the conversion. It was with pleasant surprise that Coach Nelson watched McKay, recently recovered from a hand injury, direct the latter part of the game.

Said Nelson, "The sophomores are giving us great support despite their lack of experience, especially at halfback and tackle." He was especially pjleased with Giddings, Fran Love, Reilly, and Larry Leahy. Stewart also received praise for his 6 for 9 completion record

STREET'S CORNER

Having so successfully predicted the outcome of last Saturday's football slaughter, it would be unwise to make another such attempt so soon. With so many fans scheduled to turn out for the football and soccer games, I would like to leave with you just one point to watch for in the games this Homecoming.

The outcomes of this Saturday's games may hinge on the strategies that Panther coaches will be employing in their respective forward lines. Duke Nelson has such fine talent at the interior line positions that he is able to rotate entire grid units to allow more effective all-out efforts on the part of his forward wall. On the other hand Joe Morrone seems to be in the position of having to go with one excellent forward line and only one. What effects these opposing techniques will have on the final scores is purely conjecture, but besides watching only the ball-carrier, tackler, dribbler, and goalie, observe the overall effects of these two stategies on the outcomes on Homecoming Saturday.

BUSH LEAGUE

By T. DEE

PKT has picked itself to be the wonders of the football league this year. Lightly regarded in the pre-season analysis, they have shown themselves to be much improved and a team to be taken seriously. One observer, after watching them play recently commented,. "Only roughhouse tactics will be able to stop them."

The Pikitees opened their season with a 51-6 rout of an inept Zete squad. Suess, Gramhofer, and Troob had two touchdowns apiece as the winners crossed the Zete goal line eight times. Garland managed the only ZP score of the afternoon.

SE Powerful

Sig Ep blotted Chi Psi's dream of an undefeated season as they beat the Lodgers 38-24. White scored three times and Spink twice as three of the Siggies four units hit paydirt. Birdsong of CP showed definite star tendencies as he hauled in three long touchdown passes to spark the losers.

DKE Wins Second

Deke edged KDR 13-6 to win the opener for these two clubs. Ralph and Wendell scored for the victors, while Pelton got the only Rancher score.

ATO had a surprisingly tough time as they won from TC by a score of 15-6. Zawitowski to Tall passes accounted for both Tau touchdowns, with a fourth quarter safety increasing the margin of victory. Hoopes taltory of the season as they down-

DKE picked up its second victory of the season as they downed PKT by a 19-16 count. Skiff, Conant, and Strife did all the Deke scoring, as Moore, Troob, and a safety accounted for PKT's points.

In lacrosse last week ATO defeated ZP by the lopsided margin of 8-0. Hayes with four goals, and Cox with two were the offensive powers for the Taus. In other scheduled games ASP forfeited to SE and PKT did the szme to Hep. No.

Dr. Werner Neuse Feted At German Celebration

The 2000-year-old city of Mainz, Germany celebrating in colorful pageantry the anniversary of its founding on June 19, bestowed on Dr. Werner Neuse of Middlebury College a replica in silver of one of the city's priceless treasurers, in recognition of his part in establishing Middlebury's Graduate School of German at the University of Mainz.

Reproduced in minute detail, the gift is a copy of a golden cloak clasp worn by the Empress Gisela at her coronation in the year 1125.

A large disk, it bears on one side in bas-relief the stylized figure of a Roman eagle, such as adorned ancient Roman standards, surrounded by beautifully wrought embellishments. On the other, inscribed in German, is the legend: "In Memory of 2000 years of the city of Mainz." The original is in the possession of the Museum for Medieval Art in Mainz.

The presentation was made in response to greetings from President Samuel S. Stratton, personally delivered by Dr. Neuse to Erich Stein, Lord Mayor of Mainz, during the festivities.

As a representative of Middlebury College and a guest of the city, Dr. Neuse, professor of German and director of the college's summer German School, spent eight days in Mainz, participating in the celebration, visiting the University and renewing old acquaintances.

Recalling medieval times, the pageantry included a flotilla of boats on the Rhine, with crowds in picturesque regalia massed high on its banks, a reception for the Minister President Karl Luebke of the Federal Republic, and the world premiere of a folk-play depicting the life of the people of Mainz over the years and the "faith and spirit" of the ages", written by Carl Zuckmayer who during World War II lived in Barnard, Vt.

Football...

to the deft hands of Ross and Stanley, as did Holmes for leading all offensive players with 67 yards on a slippery field. The weakest part of the Midd attack was its punting, averaging 28 yards. With Stewart being able to carry the load next week against Worcester Tech it should be remedied.

It was a fine team effort which caused three enemy fumbles while limiting Wesleyan to two yards in total offense. There was only one slight injury, that a sprained elbow by Don Elmore which should not keep him out more than two days. If the desire remains, things could be looking up for the Panthers.

Reflections of Telstar

Remember the picture above? It flashed across your television screen on a hot night last July. Perhaps you remember that it originated from France. And that it reached the U. S. via Telstar, the world's first private enterprise communications satellite.

Since that summer night, the Bell System's Telstar has relayed electronic signals of many types—television broadcasts, telephone calls, news photographs, and others.

But there's one Telstar reflection you might have missed. Look into the faces of the Bell System people below and you'll see it. It is the reflection of Telstar's success that glowed brightly on the faces of all who shared in the project.

Their engineering, administrative and operations skills created Telstar and are bringing its benefits down out of the clouds to your living room.

These Bell System people, through their talented, dedicated efforts, make your phone service still better, more economical, and more useful.

The reflections of Telstar are many.
